DID YOU EVER!

Think what it cost to manufacture Baking Powder? Did you ever think how baking powder is sold? Did you ever think there must be a large profit in it somewhere? The manufacturer of a certain baking powder pay out nearly a million dollars or more a year advertising their powder, trying to make people believe it is the best made. Their baking powder is sold at 50c per pound. The retailer makes his profit, the jobber makes his profit, the manufacturer makes his profit, and the consumer pays for all these and the newspaper advertising also.

What does it cost to manufacture the powder? Other manufacturers give away 25 or 30 cents worth of china, glassware, toys, hardware, books, etc., with every pound of baking powder. Again the query, what does it cost to manufacture the powder—can you think it out? You don't need to. Given, Dunoon & Waidley have a few words on the baking powder question. Until September 1 we will sell Pennsylvania Baking Powder at TEN CENTS per pound. It doesn't concern you whether we make or lose on it—we want to get it introduced. On and after September 1st our price will not exceed 15c per pound.

We are not going to pay a million dollars to advertise it; we are not going to give away any premiums with it—we are going to sell it, every pound guaranteed, to our customers. It does not give satisfaction, bring it back and receive your money.

Why do we say this? We expect it will please you. Why should you pay 50 or 10c profit on every pound of powder you buy?

Don't forget we strive to give our customers the advantage of inside prices at which we buy all sorts of goods.

Given, Dunoon & Waidley,
8 South Main Street.

THE SCHOOL BOARD MEETS TO-NIGHT

AN ELECTION OF TEACHERS WILL BE HELD.

ONLY ONE CHANGE TO BE MADE

But There Will be Two Vacancies by Reason of Resignations. The Democratic Members Will be Conservative.

THE newly organized School Board will hold its first regular meeting to-night in Superintendent Freeman's office in the High School building. The meeting is called for general business.

The most important of which will be the election of school teachers and janitors.

Some people have looked upon the advent of the Democratic board with fear of a general tossing about of the teachers, but members of the majority have informed the HERALD that their policy will be strictly conservative.

It is understood that but one removal will be made and that will be done to give one of the home graduates the position held by a non-resident. It is also understood that two vacancies will be created by resignations.

One of the Democratic members stated after the organization of the board Monday evening: "The policy of the board this year will be such that all will be satisfied. There is no intention to use our power to the exclusion of the minority. Everything looking to the interests of the schools will be done in a business like way and there will be no monopolization of rights and privileges."

CITIES OF THE WEST.

Editor Boyer's Impressions of Them After Recent Visits.

Writing from Indianapolis, Ind., Editor Boyer of the HERALD, gives some interesting notes of his western trip. He says that among the Indiana towns he visited was Frankfort. Twenty-five years ago he visited the place and spent six months there. Frankfort was then a very small village, but now it is a large city and one of the prettiest places in the state. The city pays but $70 a year for each arc electric light used. The streets are gravelled, the gutters are paved with brick and the pavements are made of brick, tiles, stone and tar, according to taste. The tax rate last year was nearly three per cent; rather high, but the money went for improvements of a permanent character. This will ultimately result in reducing the rate of taxation to a nominal figure. Moreover, the permanent improvements have greatly enhanced the value of all properties in the city. Frankfort has been Republican by 800 majority for many years. Many people there have become wealthy through investments in government lands, which cost them from $1.25 to $10 per acre, are now worth $50 per acre and upwards.

"Bill" Hines, at the time of Mr. Boyer's stay at Frankfort years ago, was a poor "bound" boy who was shipped west with others from New York. He was put on a farm and worked hard until he was 18 years of age, when he asked permission of his guardian to go east to try and find his parents. Hines was to have received a horse, bridge, suit of clothes and $50 in cash upon reaching the age of 21, but he compromised for $50 and started east. He found a brother at Pittsburg, who secured employment for him on a railroad. After working through the winter Hines wended his way to New York and found his mother there. His father had died. "Bill" returned to Frankfort with his mother and arrived there with about the same amount of money he had when he left. Hard work was resumed and now "Bill" is William Hines, Esq., worth at least $50,000, and owns a beautiful, comfortable home. He has a family that is highly respected and he is prominent in Republican politics. His business is that of an attorney and land agent and he has the reputation of being very careful and reliable.

The country throughout Indiana and Illinois, Mr. Boyer says, is badly inundated and corn crops have been considerably damaged. In some places planting was rendered impossible. One town in Indiana has streets named "Tavern," "Brewery," "Beer," "Barrel," etc. The names were no doubt given by the Germans who first settled in the place.

Speaking of Indianapolis Mr. Boyer says it reminds him of southern cities. The characteristics are about the same. There are many colored people in the city and the whites speak like southerners. The street cars, when not propelled by electricity, are drawn by mules. All the stores close at six o'clock in the evening. Living is cheap—cheaper than in any other of the western cities. There are some very fine eating houses in the city and a first class meal can be had for from 15 to 25 cents.

All the railroads run into one depot—the Union. Natural gas is piped to the city and it is used for fuel and illuminating purposes. "The Grand" and "Bates" are the largest and finest hotels and they are well managed. The lower part of the city, where the stock yards are located, are inundated.

Mr. Boyer went from Indianapolis to Chicago via the Pan Handle route, and upon his arrival in Chicago met "Johnny" Pott, of Williamsport, Pa., the Eastern Travelling Agent of the popular Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, which road has secured a big hold on the passenger business between Chicago and Minneapolis. Its offices in the former city were besieged from morning until night every day last week, the low rate for a round trip ($11.50) being an incentive for heavy travel. All the roads leading out of Chicago charged the same rate, but that did not prevent the C. M. & St. P. from getting a "scoop" on the business.

Mr. Boyer left for Minneapolis last Saturday evening. He writes that the rush to that city was immense and the many trains were made up of sleepers alone. The crowded condition of Chicago he writes, "beat all my calculation. What the people will do during the Columbian Exposition is hard to tell. Some of the leading citizens seem to think the city will not begin to hold the throng."

The contrast between the School Board and the Borough Council, so far as the interests of their constituents are concerned, is greatly in favor of the former. One looks to the personal gain of certain members and their political advancement, while every action taken by the other body is for the benefit of the school district and the advancement of the educational facilities of the town. Then, again, there is not that bitterness exhibited in the School Board that is so noticeable on the part of a few members of the Council, and the minority is treated courteously in all deliberations. I trust the controlling element among our Town Fathers will soon come to a realization of the importance of a better feeling among them. It would be better for themselves, for their constituents, and the town in general.

Several parties in town have recently called my attention to the fact that certain young men are in the habit of making raids during the night for plunder. Our efficient police force broke up the Flynn gang in this town, and these parties will meet the same fate unless they mend their ways. On Tuesday night a certain young man living at Turkey Run was caught by an employe entering the stables of the Cambridge colliery, and given chase. The young man is known, and the probabilities are, if he does not cease his midnight visits to that place he will surely be boarding at the county jail shortly. The horses of this company have repeatedly been taken out during the night and driven a long distance, and other depredations carried on. Be careful, young man; a diligent watch is now placed at this colliery.

The Republican National Convention and the approaching special election are two leading topics of discussion in town. The Democrats are as busy discussing the probable action of their national convention as the Republicans are in the discussion of the work at Minneapolis. The local Democrats are divided in their opinions. Some want Cleveland, others about for Hill, and the third parties wink and say that Patison will run both out.

On the water question there are frequent lively discussions, but when the direct question is put, there are few who will say that the debt of the borough will be increased, or that it will not. One thing is certain, the gilt edge of future prosperity gives the issue of the public water works boomers is wearing off and a sentiment is steadily growing in favor of making an agreement with the water company whereby the borough shall receive water for fire purposes free of charge and all claims against the borough shall be cancelled. The resolution of the water company to allow its offer to stand good until accepted by the borough, irrespective of the result next Tuesday, has brought many people down from the fence and they have declared in favor of an amicable settlement. The cry of the boomers is "no surrender," but this is not taken as an economical policy. PETER.

MANY SUBJECTS HANDLED.

"Peter" Again Visits His Able Pen in Commenting Upon Several Leading Topics of the Day.

Sometime last winter a leading Philadelphia newspaper started a fund, asking the public to contribute their mite, for the purpose of bringing home the body of the murdered sailor, Charles Riggin, which now lies under the unfriendly soil of Chili. I have been asked by several parties what became of the project, whether the undertaking had been abandoned. In view of the fact that several contributions from this town were made to the fund, I think the paper that exhibited its patriotic sentiments in devising a plan to bring the body to its native soil might throw some light upon the question. Mr. Editor, you have the floor. Speak, or forever hereafter hold your peace.
